FINAL PROJECT PROPOSAL ASSIGNMENT

For my final project, I am planning to make a photography-style website. For each page, I was thinking of creating results, equipment, skills, introduction, etc., using animation to make things pop, like for example an animation would be making a camera(not a real-life one) lens close and open, and animations of lights and sounds. Some images would have links to particular products and more information. The typography would be a mix of big and bold, and it would also be a combination of curiosity and professionalism. The color would be a mix of shades between red, black, grey, brown, and blue. Some interaction ideas I have is something similar to the game "murder on the alps" that you can take a screenshot in the website, and it is stored to a specific place, or you can experiment with which type of photography-styled image you want to have. Or specific images have links, and it would have music for certain images to that if u hover over it you can hear music or you can choose a song for each image, things like a modd inspiration thing.
